TWO MURDEROUS BURGLARS.

TREY SHOOT GIFFORD PHINNEY AND ROB

HIS LODGING-ROOMS. An Early Morning Raid and Perhaps a Mur der in the City of Churches-Phinney Struggled Bravely with One of the Thieves-List of the Property Stelen

A case of burglary and shooting which very much resembles the Lyman S. Weeks case occurred early this morning at the residence of Dewit Carpenter, 11 Radde place from the House.

in the Twenty-fifth Ward of Brooklyn. The victim of the shooting is Clifford Phinney, a man about twenty-six years of

At about 2.55 Mr. Phinney, who has furnished room on the parlor floor, was awakened by a slight noise as though some one were walking in stockinged feet around

He raised himself up in bed, and as he did so a ray of light flashed in his eyes from a dark lantern. It was enough for him to dis-tinguish the forms of two men prowling around the room.

In an instant he sprang from his bed and

In an instant he sprang from his bed and seized one of the men around the waist.

A struggle then ensued, in the midst of which came the flash and report of a pistol. A stinging sensation in his left breast caused Mr. Phinney to release his hold, and, with a cry of pain, he fell to the ground.

The report of the pistol attracted the attention of some of the other immates of the house. Upon entering the back parlor they found Mr. Phinney lying on his side, with blood streaming from an ugly wound in his left breast.

Near him on the floor, lay a revolver of 32-calibre, still warm, which the burglars had dropped in their flight.

Mr. Phinney was nearly unconsious.

Word was at once sent to the Twelfth Precinct, and an officer was sent to investigate.

An ambulance was also called. After Surgeon Reed had dressed the wound, Nr. Phinney was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where grave doubts are entertained of his recovery. his recovery.

How the burglars got into the house is at

How the burglars got into the house is at present unknown, but they made their escape through the front door. Mr. Phinney could give no description of them.

The following articles were stolen by the burglars: Gold watch and chain, having a black charm with the letter "C" on it; box of silk handkerchiefs, a white moonstone set in diamonds, pair of black onvx sleeve buttons, a diamond stud, $16 in cash from Phinney's trousers. nev's trousers.

Radde place is situated in a somewhat obscure part of the city, and in length it is only a block.

THERE IS A MYSTERY.

Later developments in the case of the reported gurglary at the residence of De Witt, Carpenter, at 11 Radde place, throw a very mysterious air on the matter.

A number of detectives have been investigating and can find no marks of force being used to enter the house, and although Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, their daughter Carrie and Mr. Carpenter's mother and sieter siept on the floor above Phinney's room, none of them heard any sounds of a struggle. It also transpires that two shots were fired, only one of which took effect in Phinney's breast, Phinney was an employee of the Kings County L road and comparatively little is known of him.

Coroner Lindson called at the hospital to take his ante-mortem statement, but has not yet succeeded, as Phinney remains unconscious.

THE ACCUSED FIREMEN.

Their Trial Began Before the Commission ers This Morning.

A large crowd of people filled the room at the Fire Department headquarters this morning when the Commissioners began the trial of Joseph Keegan and William O'Connor, the members of Engine 14, who were accused of stealing collars and cuffs at the Union Square fire.

The hum of conversation was interrupted by the call of Secretary Jussen, for Fireman W. J. O'Connor.

A slightly-built young man stepped to the bar and answered to the charges in a firm voice, "Not guilty."

At this juncture Judge Alfred Steckler announced that he would appear for Keegan, and James T. Byrne came forward for O'Connor.

The first man called to the stand was John S. Little, the colored porter at the store where the robbery occurred.
The porter told again his first story of see-

The porter told again his first story of seeing Keegan and O'Conner in the back room of the Earl & Wilson store, near a box which the fire patrol had covered with cloth; of their suspicious departure when he appeared; of his discovery that the goods were gone; of the first denial by the firemen that they had the goods; of their subsequent offer of $5 for his silence, and their endeavors afterwards to get the goods back and make their escape.

[SPECIAL TO THE SYRNING WORLD.] Nonquitt, July 11 .- The tidings from the sick room of Gen. Sheridan continue to be of an encouraging nature. The sufferer slept but little through the day yesterday, although he rested comfortably.

The physicians were not displeased at this. as they hoped it presaged a restful night. In this they were not disappointed. Gen. Sheridan slept well, and ate a small bit of solid food this morning, with his peptonized milk. Particular encouragement is derived from Particular encouragement is derived from the fact that indigestion did not follow the eating of a portion of boiled fish and mutton chop yesterday.

The feeling of the General's household was expressed to Major Edwin Dews, of this city, who called up Col. Kellogg last evening.

"Tell me," said Major Dews, "if you think the General will recover?"

"Most assuredly," was Col. Kellogg's reply, and to this Col. Sheridan assented.

"Noncuitt air is replacing the use of oxygen." said Col. Sheridan this morning, "and the tanks are but little resorted to. We are charmed with the absolute quiet here. With the invigorating winds and with the attention we receive I see no reason why the General will not recover, and the improvement is aiready more than we dared hope for. I trust we shall have the General sitting on his piazza before many weeks."

HELD FOR CONSPIRACY.

Boss Cooper Walsh Appears Against Three Members of the Coopers' Union.

William Kelly, of 652 Second avenue: Cornelins Lyons, of 12 Evans street, and Dennis O'Neil, of 308 Pearl street, all members of Coopers' Union No. 2, were this morning held for examination on July 19 by Justice Smith, in the Tombs Police Court, on charges of conspiracy.

NEW YORK, July 1.

New York, July 1.

No. James A. Welsh:
At our meeting last night it was decided that Thomas Sweeney should demand, in presence of one of the Executive Board, one half day's pay, 51.75, for earrying boops to the street; also to Mr. Uon. Lyons, two days and ten hours' pay for service test in demanding his rights as a member of Coopers' Union No. 2, which must be paid before any member of our union leaves your shop, including your foreman, and also the boys in your employ must be discharged.

By order of Coopers' Union No. 2.

P. J. Dunning, Recording Secretary.

Lemes A. Walls, a boss coopers. of 118 Well.

James A. Walsh, a boss cooper, of 118 Wall street, was the complainant.

Air. Walsh in his affidavit says that on July 3 the trio conspired by threats and intimidation to ruin his business.

On the same day Mr. Walsh said he received the following notice:

Mr. Walsh further says that the three men called on him, stating that they were a committee from the union, and he was told that anless he complied with the notice the men in the shop would strike. Mr. Walsh yielded to their demands, but he brought the letter to the Tombs, and Justice Smith granted him warrants for the three men.

morning.
She seated herself on a park bench, and She seated herself on a park bench, and deliberately drank an ounce of laudanum. She was seen by Policeman John O'Donohue, who sent for an ambulance, and had her taken to the New York Hospital.

The stomach pump was applied, and the doctors say she may recover.
She refused to have anything to say, and gave no reason for her attempt upon her life.

JUSTICE ON THE RIOTERS.

Arrest Made-Rumer That

Muy Escape Punishment. Andrew Capels was arrested to-day on a charge of being implicated in the Dutch Kills riot, in which Welch and Owens lost their lives. He was taken to court and admitted to teall in $1.500.

The other prisoners charged with the same conduct are having an examination to-day before Justice Kavanagh in the Long Island City Police Court.

Great indignation has been aroused by a rumor which is current to the effect that the political wires are being pulled so that Rioter Thomas Marra will be let off with a slight entence for disorderly conduct not to exceed

CLARK BALDWIN'S FRIEND.

BUT BALDWIN SAYS HE ASKED NO FAVORS OF HIM AS TO BIDS.

More Interesting Information Flaked from the Anuednet by the Fannett Angling Committee - Mr. Baldwin Tells Some Things that Happened Before and Since His European Trip.

Senator Fassett's Investigating Committee had hardly recovered from yesterday's boomerang" caused by the testimony of Aqueduct Commissioner Dowd when they came together at the Court-House morning; that is to this what was left of them, for Senator Fassett himself was absent, and at the opening of the hearing only Senators Hendricks and McNaughton were present. The former presided. Senator Van Cott came in shortly after, looking rather broken

Mr. Boardman decided to try his luck nex with Aqueduct Commissioner C. C. Baldwin, who was one of the members of the old Board before the reorganization.

The witness was first questioned with reference to his business relations with Contractor Heman, Clark, of the firm of O'Brien & Clark Baldwin said be had been President of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, but that he had never gone into any joint stock trans-actions with Mr. Clark during that period actions with Mr. Clark during that period while he was an Aqueduct Commissioner.

He had some transactions with Mr. Clark in purchasing stock and bonds of the Evansulle and Terra Haute Railway. There was no syndicate to control the market for these securities, but both operated independently.
The witness said he had also been associated with Mr. Clark as a Director of the Mount Morris Bank, but he knew nothing about its carrying any of Gov. Hill's paper.
"Since I have been an Aqueduct Commissioner I have had no transactions whatever with Mr. Clark that put me under any obligation to him or him to me."
Mr. Baldwin was asked a great many questions as to his financial transactions in Louisville and Nashville.

Mr. Baldwin was asked a great many questions as to his financial transactions in Louisville and Nashville.

He denied that he carried on personal speculation with the funds of the railroad, and added that the speculation in which the company engaged resulted in a loss of $1,000,000 to the company.

"Were you not advised to go to Europe."

"Look here, Mr. Boardman, you want to get me to say that Mr. Clark aided me in my settlement with the Louisville and Nashville. I say it is not true. It is absolutely false."

Mr. Baldwin stated that Mr. Clark was a director in the company at the time, and that he paid several hundred thousand dollars in the settlement which occurred in September, 1884. He knew that Mr. Clark had nothing to do with the settlement.

Mr. Clark bought some shares of Mount Morris Bank stock at par, 130, that were offered for sale in the open market by Mr. Woodward, President of the Hanover Bank, and the cousin of the witness.

and the cousin of the witness.

Mr. Woodward had loaned him $250,000 on the securities. He did not know that Clark had bought the bank stock till many months afterwards,
When he returned from Europe the witness said he went into private stock speculations in Wall street. Mr. Clark speculated in the same office as Rathbone & Co., but their transactions were entirely independent.

in the same office as Rathone & Co., but their transactions were entirely independent. He did not become a special partner in Rathbone & Co. till 1886.

In one transaction Mr. Baldwin admitted he had bought $170,000 jointly with Mr. Clark, and that the Continental Bank was now carrying the securities which had not been divided, on Mr. Clark's paper for their joint account. He knew of no other contractor or sub-contractor who speculated with Rathbone & Co.

After he returned from Europe, the witness said, in October, 1884 till December of the same year when the Aqueduct bids were opened he saw very little of Mr. Clark. He knew nothing of the formation of the firm of O'Brien & Clark till the bids were opened. Mr. Clark had monitoned to him several weeks before that he intended to be a bidder

The witness was asked to describe what

The witness was asked to describe what occurred at the first meeting of the Aqueduct Board for opening the bids in December, 1884. He said it was an informal meeting. There was a discussion about the bidders, who all appeared to be solvent.

Continuing, the witness said he had known several of the bidders. Brown, Howard & Co., and P. P. Dickinson & Co. were among them. He didn't know anything about the firm of O'Brien & Clark, and on the informal ballot to give that firm all the work, he voted against it. "I don't remember that a ballot was ever taken to give contracts to any other firms, although their names were considered in executive session. There was considerable talk of giving the contract to the Fish syndicate, but their price was too high."

There was also a proposition to give the entire contract to Brown, Howard & Co., but the witness voted against that too. He Board had voted on the contract, including Hurbert O. Thompson, who, he said, however, had asked him to vote for O'Brien & Clark.

James W. McCulloch, the original secretary of the Aqueduct Commission, was here called as a witness to testify as to the various meet-ings held in the fall of 1884 for the opening of bids.

The witness recollected that Mr. Dowd was one of the Commissioners who wanted to give some of the contracts to other bidders besides Brown, Howard & Co. and O'Brien & Clark.

When the matter came to a vote all the Commissioners voted either for O'Brien and Clark or Brown, Howard & Co. Com-missioner of Public Works Thompson was the only one of the Board who throughout strennously insisted that all the contracts should be given to O'Brien & Clark, accord-ing to Mr. McCulloch, while Commissioner Dowd was equally energetic in insisting that Brown, Howard & Co. should have some of the contracts.

"Do you think that there is any advantage to the city in awarding to contractors a continuous series of sections of the work when those contractors subjet the work?" No sir " "No. sir."
"When was it known that O'Brien & Clark had sublet a part of their contract?"
"A very short time after it was awarded. It created a good deal of discussion in the board."

There was a signt smell of pattle perfuning this forenoon session. Chairman Frank E. Wright, of the Special Committee on the Exalted Grand Master's Report, was the author of this amendment, and Mr. John W. White, of the same committee, was strongly in favor of it. Mr. Thomas O. Wise, the third committeeman, favored the Philadelphia amendment. The decision will not be known till to night. The New York members are opposed to the "migratory" Grand Lodge.

The Philadelphia amendment would have a Grand Lodge in each State and a Supreme Lodge constituted which shall be "migratory." This would assimilate the constitution of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks more closely to that of the United States, barring, of course, the "migratory" condition.

Io Will Begin His Work Next Week-Regu lar Visite Will Be Paid to the Densely Populated Tenements in the Lower Sec tions of the City-The Death Rate of Poor Babes is Frightful-The Field for Philanthropic Work Enermous-Let the Good Example of "The Evening World" Be Fellowed.

THE EVENING WORLD has engaged a physiian of excellent standing to devote himself in its behalf during the torrid weeks of midsummer to the gratuitous treatment of the sick children of the poor.

Beginning next week, THE EVENING WORLD physician will undertake this work, and will also from time to time advise its readers, in simple and untechnical articles, how best to restore and preserve the health of the metropolitan babies,

He will visit the tenement-houses each day in a prescribed route, to be determined hereafter, and will treat the ailing children of tender years who may be without medical attendance. Various particulars in the matter are yet to be arranged, such as the filling of prescriptions at the dispensaries, the providing of proper diet for the little invalids,

While other papers content themselves with spasmodically devoting an article to the deplorable features of crowded tenement some life in summer, dwelling particularly upon the terrible mortality among the young children of the poor, THE EVENING WORLD will attempt to do something towards alleviating the sad condition of affairs.

A VAST FIELD FOR GOOD WORK. Of course it is well understood that one physician, however able and energetic, can cover but a comparatively small part of the mmense field for work in this direction. The babies are dying in New York every hot day by the many score, and a large number of these deaths are attributable to ignorance and a lack of medical treatment and good care. A hundred physicians could well be engaged in this work.

THE EVENING WORLD offers the services of one physician as its contribution towards the prevention of the diurnal slaughter of the nnocents. THE EVENTSO WORLD Will, of course, co-operate and not interfere with the dmirable work of the city physicians. It is to be hoped that its example will be followed by others.

THE PEARFUL INFANT MORTALITY. During the month of May the total number of deaths in New York of children under five years of age was 1,180. In June it was much arger, and the outlook for July, with the probability of a torrid fortnight at its close, s something frightful.

A very large proportion of these deaths are in the crowded tenement-houses. On the records at the Bureau of Vital Statistics these deaths are attributed to diphtheria, bronchitis, pneumonia, scarlatina, measles, diarto take judgment against Clark.

The Colonel also said he had letters of great significance from Clark which he would like to know if Mr. Truax would object to proof proper medical attendance of the sick child must be explained to tell the real story.

THE EVENING WORLD'S PHYSICIAN THE EVENING WORLD has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Dr. Charles N. Cox for the remainder of July at least. It has too often happened that physicians engaged in this class of work are young and untried striplings, fresh from the medical schools.

Dr. Cox, on the contrary, is a physician of wide experience and admirable standing in his profession. He was graduated in 1883 from the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania, ar institution which has no superior and few equals among the professional schools of the country.

He practised for several years in Pennsyl. vania, and in 1885 removed to a wider field in Brooklyn, being at present located at 489 Greene avenue. He has a large and lucrative private practice and was influenced more by philanthropic than pecuniary reasons to assist in The Evening World's work. Many of his patients being out of town at this season, he has been able to make arrangements to devote the greater part of his time to the work in New York.

Confiscated the Brewery.

The brewery and bottling establishment of Morits Ladderer, at 271 Eighth avenue, Newark, was seized by Revenue Collector Krotz to-lay and its seized by revenue Conector Arols 10-lay and its contents confiscated.

The collector found that Mr. Laiderer had removed some bricks from the walls separating his brewery and his bottling place and had run a runber tute from one to the other and by passing the beer through this tube was evading the revenue tax.

PITTSBURG'S GREAT FLOOD, Mighty Rush of Waters Having Things

Its Own Violent Way. [SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] Pirranuno, July 11. Pittsburg is indulg. ing in another flood. Specials from different points one hundred and fifty miles up the Monongahela River report unprecedented high water.

Bridges have been swept away, railways submerged and great losses inflicted. Fourteen loaded coal barges broke loose here early this morning, striking the railroad bridge as they floated down. Six of them sank, while the rest tore away.

Other beats broke from their moorings and went on down the Ohio River. Three men were on board the latter. Two escaped, and the other, name unknown, has not been heard from.

The Grand Jury Finds Bills Against the Policy Men.

Evidence Gleaned by "The Evening World" Presented To-Day.

Speedy Trial and Conviction Near at Hand.

THE EVENING WOBLD reporter who was detailed to investigate the policy-shops went before the Grand Jury this morning with his evidence. The cases about which he was to give testimony were those of William Mo-Curdy, Charles Siebert, Henry Smith, Frank Collins and George Brown. The story of how THE EVENING WORLD had proceeded against these gamblers is well known to its readers. The chain of evidence against them was made as strong as possible, and it will be impossible for them to break it.

With the reporter was Sergt. Combes, who at the head of a squad of officers of the Jefferson Market Court raided the policy shops. Charley Blair, the newsboy who purchased policy tickets for the reporters, was also present, ready to tell the Grand Jury all about his part in the policy investigation. The District-Attorney has in his possession the books, papers, slips, &c., found by the officers in the places raided.

It did not take long for the three witnesses to give their evidence. In about ten minutes they had told their stories and were excutsed. The evidence is, of course, a secret between them and the Grand Jury, but after what has been exposed in The Evening World, it is not difficult to guessits purport. The Grand Jury made its report at 12.45, and among the indictments returned were five against the policy dealers—all that were considered.

William McCurdy, Henry Smith and Charles Siebert are indicted for felony, while George Brown and Frank Collins are charged with a misdemeanor.
McCurdy sold policy slips to reporters at Washington and Watts streets, Siebert at Canal and West Broadway, Smith at 198 Greene street, Collins at 223 South Fifth avenue, and Brown at 84 Thompson street.
They are all under ball and will probably be arraigned to plead to morrow morning.
Clerk Bauzer says he thinks there will be no difficulty in having a speedy trial. Every indication points to an early conviction of the gamblers.
